TRANSCRIPT OF INTERACTION

I'll do. What do I start? Okay. Yeah. Hi, guys. My name is Adyant. Um, I graduated from University of Illinois, Chicago. I it's been five years. I've been back. I did a major in entrepreneurship and a minor in managerial studies. It's a pleasure to be here. And this is very interesting. I think I'm good. I'm good. Krishna. It's. Yeah, I think it's good. Yeah, yeah. Uh, probably see whether there's do do do I need to answer me on the questions? Sure, sure. Let's say you can talk about the new entrepreneurship related thing that you're doing in change. Okay. Sure. So, um, the initiative we have taken is it's, uh, entrepreneurship development cell under Chamber of Commerce, Chamber of Commerce and Industry, and we are trying to develop the entrepreneurship community at grassroot level in Gwalior. The idea is that, uh, we want to create awareness about, you know, people, uh, to give a different career opportunity, except on, uh, a job and teach them, educate them how there is entrepreneurship as a career option, uh, how we are there to provide them the resources. We are there to provide them with ideation to success stories. And we are trying to draw inspiration from the people who have already done it already and doing it currently, or whether in the struggling phases, or they have achieved it already, and just trying to bring them all together under an umbrella, connecting all the incubation centers of Gwalior and, you know, keeping a natural flow of things, uh, see how it goes and, uh, give them an opportunity to flourish. I think it comes from my natural, uh, passion. I, you know, growing up in a business family, I have always, you know, seen the nitty gritty of it. And then I myself did it in us. My course was in entrepreneurship. And these are kind of struggles I, you know, see on a day to day basis. whenever I'm also trying to struggle with a new business idea, I would, you know, do all the grassroot work. I would try to figure it out that how to go about it, how to, uh, you know, do that one plus one, how to make sense, how to do the fire fighting, how to make it work. So just seeing that struggle of what it takes to build a business from scratch, it really kind of motivates me to, you know, make it happen. And, you know, there is a good risk and reward situation. It can fail, it can work. So just being in the position where, you know, people can, uh, go through with it and help them with it and being a part of it. I think that is what really gives me the motivation to make it happen. Let us end your speech there. Yeah.

CONSOLIDATED NLP PARAMETERS

Factor(s)	Score	Feedback
Reasoning	60%	Your reasoning is good, as it logically connects your background, your new initiative, and your motivation. However, there is room for improvement in strengthening your arguments with more specific examples and evidence about the impact of your initiative. For instance, providing some statistics or success stories could make your reasoning more compelling.
Creativity	70%	Your initiative to develop the entrepreneurship community at a grassroots level is quite innovative and shows creativity in addressing a common issue. However, your delivery could benefit from a more engaging and unique presentation style. Think about incorporating anecdotes or relatable stories to make your speech stand out further.
Clarity	50%	Your main ideas are somewhat clear, but the delivery is often interrupted by fillers and uncertainties (e.g., 'um,' 'yeah'). Try to articulate your points more confidently and concisely. Practicing your speech multiple times can help you speak more clearly and smoothly, making it easier for your audience to follow.
Structure	55%	Your speech has a clear beginning and middle but lacks a strong conclusion. The organization of ideas can be improved by having a more structured flow. For instance, start with an engaging introduction, then explain your initiative in detail, and finally, end with a strong conclusion summarizing your key points and leaving a lasting impression.
Emotion	65%	You convey genuine passion and motivation, especially when sharing your personal experiences and struggles. However, the emotional impact can be enhanced by varying your tone and expression more dynamically to keep the audience engaged. Consider emphasizing key points with more enthusiasm and slowing down for more impactful moments.
